

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method and apparatus for measuring the group delay of a device are provided. The temporal and spectral intensities of optical pulses are measured after propagation in the device and the group delay of the device is determined 5 using the measured intensities.